

Sports Museum of America – Board of Honorary Trustees

The Sports Museum of America's Board of Honorary Trustees comprises some of the most decorated, iconic stars in America from a myriad of sports. These great athletes are lending their support and stature to the Nation's first and only all-sports experience and to the revitalization of Lower Manhattan from the events of September 11.

Said Bob Cousy, 13-time NBA All Star, "SmA is a great sports concept bursting to life in the world's most exciting city. As a former New Yorker, there's a real emotional connection for me, and I can't think of a better place for it to be a great success."

"The Sports Museum of America represents an opportunity to tell the greatest stories about athletes from every sport in one great location," said legendary heavyweight Boxing champion Joe Frazier. "It enables the millions of visitors to New York City and the millions of residents to learn about the great sport of boxing and assist with the legacy to which I've dedicated my life - to inspire urban youth to 'keep fighting' and live like champions. I'm pleased to serve on its Honorary Board and help where I can."

"Finally, female sports legends and champion athletes will have a home," said Tennis icon and civil right champion Billie Jean King. "And the people who support, love and are inspired by these superwomen will be welcomed and treasured guests."
